Charges laid in traffic death

A 46-year-old Fenelon Falls man was charged late last week in connection with the August 19 hit and run death of Gail Adams on Highway 121 south of Kinmount.

Last Wednesday night, members of the Coboconk OPP detachment arrested John Griffin on charges of leaving the scene of an accident. Following an appearance before Justice of the Peace Murray Robinson, Griffin was released on an undertaking. He is scheduled to appear in Lindsay Provincial Court on September 21.

The charges stem from a police investigation into the death of Adams, 43, who was struck by a passing vehicle on Highway 121 in Somerville Township. When police arrived at the scene that morning they found Adams' body in a ditch near a parked car.

Peterson greeted in Lindsay

Up to 50 per cent of the pesticides used on Ontario's farms will be replaced with alternative methods of agricultural pest control in the next 15 years with the aid of a $10-million program announced by Premier David Peterson during his stop in Lindsay last Tuesday morning.

Addressing a crowd of over 200 at McDonnell Park, Peterson said, if re-elected, the Liberal will introduce a program to help Ontario farmers reduce their reliance on pesticides. He said $10-million will be set aside for the first five years of the program which will focus on the development of biological controls, predation, and crop rotation.

Peterson's initial arrival in town was met by only a few of John Eakins' campaign workers and reporters, as his campaign bus pulled up at Rivera Park. However, a few hundred yards up the Scugog River, a large crowd was forming at McDonnell Park.

While the boisterous crowd waved banners, clung to red and white balloons, and listened to music played by the Legion band, Peterson, Eakins and a crowd of Toronto reporters climbed aboard Lindsay's new tour boat, Skylark VIII, and made the slow journey up the river.

There was little question that Lindsay is Liberal territory, as the large crowd formed along the river's edge to greet the 43-year-old Liberal leader. He had to force his way through the throngs of supporters before reaching the stage set up on the side of the hill below the Lindsay Legion.

The admiration paid to him by the crowd was small in comparison to the praise he bestowed on his tourism minister. He said Eakins has done more to improve tourism in the province than any other tourism minister. (more on page 2)

A group of Lindsay area kids were more than willing to hold up these placards when Liberal leader David Peterson came to town last week.

Professional job nets thieves petty cash

A group of thieves had an active night on August 24 as they broke into four area municipal offices, causing extensive damage and making off with small amounts of cash.

The Lutterworth Township office suffered more than $4,000 damage as the thieves burned a hole through the vault door to steal the $40 in petty cash within. In the same evening, the municipal offices in Snowdon Township, Fenelon Township and Cameron were also broken into.

While the Snowdon Township office sustained little damage, the thieves took $305 which was kept in a cash box. The thieves had gained access to the office in Gelert by forcing the lock in the basement window.

The Lutterworth Township office, on the other hand, experienced extensive damage as the thieves looked for an easy access to the vault. Panelling was torn away from the walls surrounding the vault, in an apparent bid to see if they could find another route into the vault. Large boards were nailed to the front windows of the office, to prevent anyone from seeing the lights on inside, and furniture was rearranged to clear a working space.

In the end, the thieves stole torches from the township garage, which they used to cut a hole through the large steel vault door. Buckets of water were poured all over the carpeting around the vault to prevent it from catching fire.

The four area municipal buildings appear to be the latest victims of a province-wide string of robberies at municipal offices. Minden OPP report that similar offences have been carried out across Ontario, mainly in the eastern part of the province.

In recent weeks, similar crimes have been committed in the Huntsville District. The municipal office in Dorset was also recently raided.

Investigating officer Brad Burkholder says police are investigating all possibilities in these latest break-ins. While they appear to be related to the others, police will also look into the possibility that these could be isolated offences.

It is evident from the hole drilled through the vault door at Lutterworth Township office that the thieves know their craft. However, they got away with only $40.

Seniors Housing

Staanworth, yes

Plans for an additional 32 seniors' housing units in the area have passed through the Ministry of Housing's preliminary screening process, Staansworth Municipal Non-Profit Housing Corporation chairman Ed Pergolas learned last week.

A letter from the ministry to Pergolas said the corporation's proposal to sponsor the new social housing units has been selected for preliminary consideration under the 1988 Non-Profit Housing allocations.

The corporation has already succeeded in establishing 22 units at Staansworth Court, while an additional 18 were established by the Victoria Housing Authority at Sunrise Apartments. All these units are filled and there is a waiting list of applicants for future consideration.

Pergolas said the corporation's study revealed a need for an additional 32 units in the area. He said 140 applications were received from potential tenants.

Close to 8,700 units were included in the ministry's initial selection. A further review of the initially selected projects will be made by the end of the year and conditional funding will be provided through Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation and the Ontario Ministry of Housing.

Between now and December, the corporation will be preparing preliminary plans, establishing a site and conducting other initial development work. This development work will provide the basis for comparison and final approval of the funding.

Under the joint federal-provincial Non-Profit Housing program, funding for construction of the units is shared 60 per cent at the federal level and 40 per cent at the provincial level.

Kinmount, no

Victoria - Haliburton MPP John Eakins says the Kinmount Legion Seniors Housing Committee should not be discouraged by the Ministry of Housing's rejection of their application for 20 seniors housing units.

After learning that the committee's application did not make it through the ministry's initial screening process, acting president Don Holden expressed some concern. He said this is the second year in a row the committee had applied for units, and both times it was turned down. The ministry's rejection letter says "the need and demand data submitted with your approval unfortunately did not support the development of a 20-unit project for seniors in the Kinmount area."

Contacted last week, Eakins said the committee should continue to pursue the need for seniors apartments. He said organizations often have their first applications turned down. He said he will be getting in touch with the committee to see if there is any way he can help strengthen the application.

Holden said he was surprised by the ministry's response. He said the committee determined the need for the units through its studies. With more than 80 applicants listed in the committee's presentation he felt there was a good chance funding would be approved.

Holden said the Legion has already invested $1,500 into the studies, and has located three potential sites for the building. He said there are seniors in Kinmount who have applied for the apartments in Minden and Haliburton, but would rather stay in Kinmount if units were available. "Those 20 units would have been filled up before you could blink your eye," he said.

Tourism growing

According to Peterson, the number of tourists from the U.S. was up five per cent last year. He said the number of tourists from outside of Canada was up 25 per cent, and in-province tourism is up 12.5 per cent.

Peterson said people across the province have expressed satisfaction in the programs designed by Eakins. He said people are "grateful for programs like Destinations East and North."

Noise bylaw hurried

Anson, Hindon and Minden Bylaw Enforcement Officer Peter Oomen will be contacting the township solicitor in hopes of speeding up the process of establishing an anti-noise bylaw.

For the second meeting in a row, council was confronted with a complaint of loud noise Thursday night.

Lorna Hogg of South Lake approached council to express concern about barking dogs on her neighbour's property. She said there are three dogs kept outside and more inside which are continually barking.

Sympathizing with the need for some means of controlling the noise, councillor Bern Berry implored council to get the bylaw back from the solicitor and have it approved.

Councillor Vern Graham said he too is interested in passing the bylaw, but said nothing can be done until it is returned by the solicitor.

He said it has been in their lawyer's possession "for some time now".

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt noted that he does not see how the bylaw can be enforced once it gets council's approval. He indicated the township does not presently have the staff for that responsibility.

Small craft Harbours. A revitalization program.

This program was created with the safety of people and the protection of boats in mind. It will:

- put ongoing maintenance of existing small craft harbours and facilities on a sounder financial footing;
- re-open harbour facilities closed for safety reasons;
- repair damage caused by storms or high water levels;
- launch new services and facilities at some harbours that will meet the expanding needs of fishermen, yachtsmen and local industries.

But more importantly local harbour authorities created under this revitalization program will, with the Federal government support, give fishermen and other users a more direct role in the planning, management, operation and maintenance of their harbour.

Project proposals will be analyzed and funded on their individual merits, and announcements on funding will be made as decisions are reached.

Area residents pulled from firey wreck

The charred remains of Leanna Barker's Dodge are resting at Minden Collision. Barker and passenger Gary Chapman were pulled from the car just seconds before it became engulfed in flames following an accident on Highway 35 last week.

Failure to fasten their seatbelts may have saved the lives of two area people who were involved in a spectacular traffic accident this past week.

Leanna Barker, 19, of Stanhope Township and Gary Chapman, 21, of Carnarvon, narrowly escaped a fiery grave as they were pulled free of their wrecked car just seconds before it was completely engulfed in flames. Leanna's mother, Ann Barker, said it was a good thing they had not been wearing their seat belts, or they may not have been freed in time.

Leanna Barker lost control of the late model Dodge on Highway 35 near Jordan Drive when the steering locked. The car swerved off the highway, striking a rock face and rolling over several times before bursting into flames. It was at that point that two brave Samaritans, Bernice Maione, of Toronto and Stephen Orlitzky of Guelph, who were passing by the scene, rushed to the burning vehicle in an attempt to pull the injured out of the inferno. Although Chapman was part way out already he was injured and needed assistance in getting free. All the while Orlitzky was getting a hammer to remove the rear window in order to free Barker.

The two were freed just before the car burst into a ball of fire.

Although the car could not be saved, the Minden Fire Department prevented flames from spreading to the bush.

The two were transferred to a Peterborough Hospital with broken bones and internal injuries but both are resting at home now. Orlitzky and Maione could not be reached for comment.

Single vehicle accident claims life

One man is dead and another injured after a single-vehicle accident on County Road 16 last Sunday, August 23. At 1:50 a.m. the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve and slid striking an embankment before flipping.

Harry Edward Burden, 26, was a passenger in the truck and died a short time after the accident. The driver of the truck, Richard Peter Aubrey, 26, was airlifted from Minden Hospital to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto.

Charges laid

Police recovered over $19,000 worth of stolen property and charged two people with a total of 37 offences thanks to the watchful eye of an alert neighbour.

The thieves had used stolen boats to travel from cottage to cottage collecting property in the Kawagama Lake area east of Dorset. They were eventually sighted by residents on the lake who alerted police. One male subject was arrested at the lake while the other was apprehended in Hamilton. Charged in connection with the offences is Kirk Charron, 19 of Mississauga, and Steven Oliphant, also 19 and from Mississauga.

Drug crop

Approximately 200 marijuana plants ranging in height from 2' to 7' were found growing near the County Line, south of Gooderham on August 21. Peterborough and Minden OPP are looking into it and say all plants will be destroyed.

Car wrecked

On Saturday, August 22, at 10 p.m., Leanna Barker, 19, lost control of her car on Hwy. 35 near Jordan Drive and skidded off the west side of the road.

The car hit a rock cut, flipped over several times and burst into flames. As the car lay on its roof with flames spreading rapidly, two people came to the rescue. Gary Chapman, 21, a passenger in the car, was lying part way out of the car when Bernice Maione of Toronto pulled him out. Leanna Barker was trapped inside the car and she was eventually pulled clear by Stephen Orlitzky of Guelph. He was forced to hammer out the rear window in order to free her. Once clear, the car burst into flames and was totally destroyed.

Both passenger and driver were transferred to a Peterborough Hospital with internal injuries and broken bones.

Car crash

An oil patch on County Road 19 caused a 1987 pickup driven by Ursula Wenzel to slide into the path of another 1987 pick-up driven by Robert Packard at approximately 4:45 p.m., August 17. Although neither was seriously injured, damage is listed at $6,000.

Eakins deserves another term

Just 10 days from today, voters in Victoria - Haliburton will again be faced with the difficult task of deciding who will represent us at Queen's Park for the next few years.

Similar to the 1985 provincial election, we are faced with the choice between two solid candidates from the Progressive Conservative and Liberal parties, both of whom are capable of providing the sort of leadership that residents of this riding have come to expect.

Although NDP candidate Ivan Moore and FCP candidate Diane Roblin Lee should be congratulated for the courage shown by putting their names forth in this election, neither should be considered as viable candidates in this election. Moore's late entry into this race demonstrates a lack of organization in his local riding association. Had the party been taking this riding seriously, a candidate would have been nominated months ago.

Lee, on the other hand, is representing a brand new party, of which very little is known. During a recent debate in Lindsay, she responded to at least two questions by saying she does not have sufficient information on the topic. On the same token, we feel that we do not have enough information on her or her party to lend her our support.

In all reality, this election boils down to a two-candidate battle for the position, between incumbent Liberal John Eakins and the challenger, Conservative Art Ward. And when the merits of these two are weighed against each other, the scales would have to tip in Eakins' favour.

There is little question that Ward has mounted the most impressive campaign in this election. Over the past few weeks, he has covered almost every inch of this riding in an effort to get his message across. And at every stop, he demonstrates his ability to address almost any issue with thoughtful, knowledgeable replies. While he carries the Conservative banner, he has shown that he is also a free-thinking individual. If nothing else, the kerfuffle over his plans for Ontario Place demonstrates this.

If our decisions were to be based solely on the performance of the candidates during the campaign, Ward would be the obvious choice. However, this is not the case. In making our choice, we must also look back on the performance of Eakins during his past terms in office.

Despite a campaign that was long on red and white balloons, banners and buttons and short on substance, we cannot deny him another term. His dedication and hard work for the constituents of this riding has resulted in untold benefits in all corners of our two counties. He has earned the respect and admiration of most who have sought his assistance during the past years.

While Eakins has made no substantial promises in this campaign, we trust that the sort of representation he has demonstrated in the past will continue in the future.

Water shortage concerns

Editor:

I wish to thank Bill Kulas for his recent article: "Water is Evaporating." Not only do we have good reason to be concerned about the scarcity of water in our world, especially in Third World Countries, but the condition of drinking water. Millions of people experience sicknesses and death as a result of contaminated water.

As indicated in his article, the H.A.V.E. Committee is playing a significant role through assisting thousands of needy people in Developing Countries to get pure, potable water. H.A.V.E.'s accomplishments are the results of many concerned, generous persons in Haliburton County and beyond. It should be especially noted, however, that including the four founding members mentioned in Bill's column, there are 14 Committee members attending to H.A.V.E.'s affairs at its regular monthly meeting, held on the third Thursday. Several weeks prior to H.A.V.E.'s two big fund-raising events -- "WALK FOR WATER (June 4/88) and Haliburton Artists Variety Evening

(Nov. 7/87) -- ad hoc committees are formed to include others in the community. It is, therefore, because of the concerns, co-operation, and contributions of numerous persons that H.A.V.E. is able to assist desperately needy villagers to help themselves.

Heroic duo saves lives

In times of peace, opportunities to display the qualities of heroism are infrequent. And when such opportunities do arise, people are often ill prepared or too uncaring to respond to an emergency.

However, this was not the case last week when Stephen Orlitzky and Bernice Maione, both of Toronto, saved two Haliburton County residents from what would be almost certain death following a traffic accident on Highway 35 in Minden Township.

Leeanna Barker and Gary Chapman were trapped in their car when it swerved from the highway, rolled over several times and burst into flames. As the car lay on its roof with flames spreading rapidly, Maione and Orlitzky risked their own safety in order to free the car's occupants. While Maione pulled Chapman clear of the flames, Orlitzky hammered out the rear window of the car to free Barker from the wreckage.

Just like we see on television, the car became totally engulfed in flames as soon as everyone was clear. However, this was not a television show. Orlitzky and Maione put their own lives in peril to save two people whom they had never met before.

As a result of the bravery and quick reactions of these two people, Barker and Chapman are now recovering from their injuries.

What do you think about...

Encouraging immigration

by Bill Kulas

A few weeks ago I wrote about how the Canadian Government should make it tougher for refugees and refugee smugglers who enter our country illegally. Those who have entered our borders as legal immigrants, in general, have made significant contributions to society. Be they Portuguese, Asians, Indians, Sikhs or of countless other backgrounds, the majority of these immigrants have proven to be hardworking and dedicated citizens. Why do we need immigrants? Canada's population as of the 1986 census stood at 25,354,064. With Canada's very low fertility rate of 1.6 births per woman, which is well below the 2.1 births needed to maintain populations at steady levels, officials believe that our Country's population will start to decline in the next century.

What of employment? Even though Statistics Canada report fairly high levels of unemployment in Canada, there are hundreds of thousands of jobs available waiting to be filled. Locally, just check the want ads in our papers. Small businesses have been scrambling this year to obtain adequate staffing. Fewer and fewer younger people are going to have to do productive labour in the future, because of the quickly aging population.

Presently, one in ten Canadians is age 65 or over. In the next century about one in four will be age 65 or over. Apart from programs designed to stimulate Canada's sagging birth rate, the answer is immigration.

Presently the Federal Government is carrying out a study, commissioned by the Health and Welfare Department. The study due to be completed in 1989 is designed to answer fundamental questions about the long-term implications of changes in the size and makeup of Canada's population, including the effect of immigration on economic growth and how higher immigration levels would change the ethnic character of the country.

Steady, well planned growth in immigration along with increased birth rates could very well be what is needed for Canada to enjoy continued economic growth and prosperity. What do you think?

Liberal Leader David Peterson is given a warm welcome in Lindsay.

Unions: 'Fire the works'

Editor:

Let's get something straight - Unions do not dictate Canadian policy!

Duly elected politicians do!

One need not look too far to see the damage done - solely by unions, Britain, Australia, U.S.A. to mention a few, have shown steady economic decline.

And now Canada?

These socially oriented (communist) regimes would have you believe the old cliché, "one for all and all for one" - not so - six people standing around one hole and one person digging - all solidly protected by the unions.

I stand firmly behind Reagan's policy in dealing with the Air Traffic Controllers, "fire the works." When one considers the amount of welfare recipients and the unemployed who would be more than pleased to accept the jobs of the striking it makes one cry.

If said elected politicians were at their posts dealing with facts instead of Triuca, or as one astute person stated recently (via the media) "the government could not run a country store and come out in the black. Just maybe things...

Discontented,

R. N. McBride,
Minden.

Defends insurance

Editor:

Your article, "Insurance woes sink regatta", in your August 10th issue, purports to describe matters which were discussed at the annual meeting of the Twelve Mile and Little Boshkung Lakes Association in August, 1987. Having attended the meeting I take issue with your representative's report of a discussion which was never presented at the meeting itself. I, too, overheard one member, during coffee break, endorsing a proposal that cottagers' associations should consider a self-insurance scheme similar to those adopted by some school boards and municipalities in Ontario as a means of reducing premiums by insuring themselves through a reciprocal exchange, it was never part of the business of the meeting, nor would it have gone unchallenged. A reciprocal exchange is an arrangement whereby a group of organizations having common or similar exposures, pay premiums to the exchange manager who administers the plan. If the plan makes money the premiums are usually set aside as a hedge against a less fortunate day. If it does not make money, each member is assessed an additional sum to meet the deficit. Reciprocal exchanges are regulated by the Department of Insurance.

In Ontario, the only reason these reciprocals have been accepted is because, in the opinion of Superintendent of Insurance, John Weir, they are financially responsible. For

Canada World Youth

Gavin Elder and Rashid Ahmed Zardari are this week's featured Canada World Youth participants. During their stay in Haliburton, they are living with Carl and Marie Wallace. Gavin and Rashid are among the 14 CWY participants from Pakistan and Canada who arrived in the county in July for the first half of their seven-month exchange.

Gavin Elder

My name is Gavin Elder. I'm from King City, Ontario. The first phase of the Canada World Youth program has been an incredible learning experience so far.

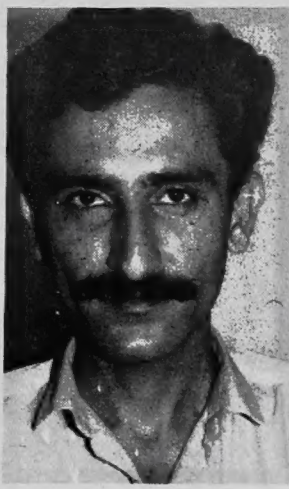

I graduated from Grade 13 in June '87. I plan to go to Trent University for Archaeology / Anthropology in September of 1988.

Haliburton, thus far, has shown us hot/humid weather as well as sincere hospitality. We have enjoyed the Bluegrass Festival, the parade and the rock garden. I love this town!

My counterpart, Rashid, and I are staying in Eagle Lake with Carl and Marie Wallace. They are extremely kind and generous. Their home is beautiful, as is the lake-front beach. I feel like an adopted child!

Rashid and I are working at the Haliburton Highlands Museum. Everyone there is great! They are very interested in our program. The work is very interesting. We have had a variety of jobs such as: carpentry, tour guides and "Bluegrass Officials". I'm finding the job very interesting so far.

We have two months left in Haliburton. I'm sure we'll all have many enriching experiences to write home about.

Rashid Ahmed Zardari

Hi (Asslam-ul-Ekeum)! I am Rashid. My second name is Ahmed and my family name is Zardari. I was born in a village Rano Kahn Zardari, near Jam Sahib in the Nawab Shah, the District of Sind Province. I am 21 years old. Twenty years ago my family moved from Nawab - Shah to Hyderabad for educational purpose. Hyderabad is a historical city and is situated some 140 kms from Karachi (the capital of Sind). I am a student of VIth semester (B.E.), civil engineering at Meharn University of Engineering and Technology Jam Shoro. This university is situated 15 kms from Hyderabad along the River Indus.

My hobbies are travelling, reading books and composing poems in my own "Sindhi" language. I was selected in this programme on my academic and extra-curricular activities basis. My Canadian counter-part is Gavin Elder. He is a nice guy.

I am staying with Carl and Marie Wallace at Eagle Lake. They are very kind and polite to us. Me and my counterpart are working at Haliburton Highlands Museum. The staff of the Museum is very co-operative. I am enjoying my stay at Haliburton. It is a great opportunity for me that today I am in Canada and it all because of Canada World Youth Exchange Programme.

Boring business sessions

financially responsible, read: "have the power of taxation". If the plan fails they can fall back on the tax payer to bail them out. Now transfer that philosophy to cottagers' associations. They not only do not have the power to tax, but their membership is voluntary. If the president of the Twelve Mile Little Boshkung association was concerned about collecting a $20.00 annual fee, what hope is there that an assessment of a few hundred dollars will find favour.

One of the problems at meetings such as this is that individuals, who do not understand the principles involved, offer suggestions which have been adopted elsewhere to solve a difficulty which is not parallel.

I thought the response to the suggestion by Mrs. Anthon of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Association was about as non-committal as it could be. You quoted her as saying, "That is an option which could be considered". It is an indication why this lady, who made a most informative address to the association, so capably holds such a prominent position in the Federation.

My investigation of the situation reveals that the foul-up was likely at a local level of the insurer. Generally, the market does not appear to be anything like what was related at the meeting and if the executive of the association had pursued the matter in a logical sequence, the problem would likely have been solved and the regatta (which is a pretty classy name for the function usual to this association) would have been held. However, it is easy to blame a volunteer executive who may not have time to conduct the amount of research necessary to solve every problem.

I realize that the business session is usually not the most newsy event for a reporter to cover, but I question that a coffee break conversation should be reported in such a way that it reads like it was part of the official discussion.

Religion in politics

Editor:

The wave of optimism abroad in the county regarding the increased tourist trade and welcome dollars would appear to be carrying Mr. Eakins safely from the deep waters of uncertainty as Minister of Tourism in a minority government to the balmy shores of unbounded opportunity. It needs to be admitted that in this one area of economics we have a lot to be thankful for and do acknowledge Mr. Eakins' service.

However, I will not be voting for Mr. Eakins because of other equally important issues. Some people would say that 'religion and politics don't mix'. I agree. But as both a voter and a believer in the Lordship of Jesus Christ and the sovereignty of His Word, I can participate in the democratic process. At the same time bringing into that process my insights gained through day to day practical living combined with the influence that the Christian Faith has had in molding my social sensitivities and subsequent reasons for becoming involved within that society. Like everyone else I vote from a particular world-view which happens to be in my case "Christian".

Should the Liberals be returned to power, Mr. Ian Scott the Attorney General would like to see abortion clinics flourishing to meet the demand of unwanted pregnancies. Mr. Eakins has been described as having pro-clinic sympathies. If I am wrong in this assessment then I would appreciate hearing from Mr. Eakins a clear statement about his abortion/abortion clinic standing. The 30,000 or so abortions committed in this province last year, says something about the holocaust against the unborn, and what kind of priorities are starting to shape our society. I will as a voter support a party providing more compassionate and humane alternatives than abortion. As a Christian I am asked to do whatever I can to bring Justice on behalf of the exploited and vulnerable, and where possible to confront and expose those acts or actions which diminish or destroy the intention which God had for His Creation. To me, counselling centres exhibiting true compassion to both mother and baby are necessary.

Another example would be the Bill 7 issue. Not many constituents are aware that Mr. Eakins supported a Bill that would penalize any person who would refuse to hire someone with a homosexual orientation. This includes civil servants, teaching professionals, social service workers and caretakers, perhaps even your babysitter! As a voter, I again will express my opposition to his careless disregard for the foundation of our family and social life. The act of homosexuality is condemned in the Bible (not the homosexual himself) and common sense tells us that the act itself is contrary to the nature of things. We must explore caring alternatives for those who are wanting help.

Mr. Eakins' support of such bills tears away at the delicate machinery that makes a society stable and caring. So while on the one hand we may be thankful for the present prosperity, on the other hand we must look ahead to where the moral decisions our politicians are making will lead us. What will be left for our children to inherit? And what kind of children will they be?

Don Waterhouse,
Highland Grove.

Terry Fox run September 13

by Johnston Bailey

1986 was another outstanding year for the Terry Fox Run! More than a quarter of a million Canadians turned up last September 14th to honour the memory of Terry Fox. In doing the 10 km courses at 2000 sites across the country, these runners carried on in the tradition founded by Terry in 1981, and raised a record $3.8 million for cancer research.

Terry has been gone for a number of years now, and it is easy to forget his sacrifice. Cancer, on the other hand, is still very much with us. We still require millions of dollars for research each year! We do need your support during this year's Terry Fox Run, on Sunday, September 13!

Walkers! Runners! Bikers! You are all welcome, and encouraged to participate. No one is too young or too old to participate! Cancer will strike a person at any age.

The important thing is to come out, participate, and have an enjoyable time while making a contribution to

65 treated for rabies

More than 52 cases of animal rabies have been reported in the Counties of Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton this year.

As a result, 65 people have received the anti-rabies vaccine after coming in contact with a rabid animal, Dr. Mikel, Medical Officer of Health for the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit said last week.

Dr. Mikel said that, under a provincial regulation that has been adopted in this District Health Unit, it is compulsory for all dogs and cats three months of age and over to be vaccinated against rabies. The regulation is intended to protect people from the disease, he said. Most cases of human anti-rabies treatments result from contact with cats and dogs which have been infected by a rabid wild or domestic animal.

Although vaccinating domestic animals is the only barrier between rabies and people, only 40 per cent of dogs and 15 per cent of cats in Ontario are currently immunized. More than 50 per cent of the human exposures to the disease occur from contact with owned, unimmunized dogs and cats - often one's own household pet.

Special low-cost clinics will be held on September 12 and 19 of this year and pet owners will be charged only $5.00 per animal for the rabies vaccination. Owners also have the option of going to their regular veterinarian.

An immunization certificate will be issued to the owner, indicating when and where the animal was vaccinated and when the vaccination must be repeated. In addition, a rabies identification tag will be provided for each vaccinated dog and cat. The regulation requires that dogs and cats be re-vaccinated on a regular basis. Pet owners who do not comply with the regulation are subject to a maximum fine of $5,000.

In the interest of protecting the people in the community from rabies, the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit and the Quinte District Veterinary Association urges dog and cat owners to meet the regulation by getting their dogs and cats immunized.

Inquiries regarding this regulation should be directed to your local Health Unit or Veterinary office.

Some important facts on rabies are as follows:

Rabies has been a serious problem in Ontario since the 1950s.

In 1986 it reached epidemic proportions with more rabid animals and more human treatments than ever before on record.

In just one year there was a 165 per cent increase in animal rabies; from 2,124 in 1985 to 3,507 in 1986.

A near-record 2,150 people were treated for exposure to rabies in 1985. By 1986 that number had jumped to 4,212 - a staggering 196 per cent increase.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation is based on samples taken at the Ontario Ministry of Environment Acid Rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada. There were six precipitation events during the latest reporting period:

-August 16, 1 mm of rain, with a pH of 3.7, arriving at the site from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and southern Ontario.

-August 17, 1 mm, pH 3.8, from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and southern Ontario.

-August 18, 2 mm, pH 4.5, from Wisconsin and Michigan.

-August 19, 3 mm, pH 4.9, from northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

-August 21, 11 mm, pH 4.3, from Indiana, Michigan and southern Ontario.

-August 22, 1 mm, pH 4.2, from Indiana, Michigan and southern Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Paddlers challenge white water

With more than 500 cubic feet per second of water churning through a winding path of rocks and boulders, the Minden Wild Water Preserve provided an outstanding course as the country's best paddlers gathered on the weekend for the National Whitewater Championships.

Although the water level was said to be at its lowest point ever, organizers and competitors alike seemed satisfied with the challenge posed by the foaming white water of the Gull River. Under normal conditions, the river can funnel up to 700 cubic feet per second of water through the one-kilometre course. However, the light snowmelt in the spring and the dry summer have put a limit on the availability of water in the system.

Close to 80 competitors were on hand for the two-day event. And about 1,000 spectators lined the shores of the course, most with cameras ready to capture the thrills and spills as racers negotiated the bubbling water.

One by one, the racers made their way through the series of gates Saturday during the practice runs, planning their strategies for the following day. Seventeen gates, each posing a new problem for the paddler, were set up. And judges were stationed at each to ensure the competitors properly passed through the dangling bars.

In order to score in these events, the paddlers must run each of the 17 gates in order, and in the proper direction. Depending on the markings of the gates, the paddlers must pass through either forward, backward or back against the current.

In order for the negotiation of the gate to be judged as correct, the body and the boat must cross the gate line upright and in the right direction.

Although the K-1 class was the most popular, there were actually three classes of competitors in the championships. The K-1 is the event in which one paddler is seated in a 4.5 metre kayak. The C-1 has one person kneeling in the 4.3 metre canoe, while the C-2 carries two people in specially designed canoes.

Although the weekend races were limited to Canadian competitors, paddlers from around the world may get a taste of the Gull River course in coming years. Organizers are hoping to attract national events in the next few years to give the river the recognition it deserves.

There is also a good chance that the white water events of the 1992 Olympics may be held here. If Toronto wins its bid to host the Olympic Games, the Minden Wild Water Preserve will be the site for these events.

Struggling against the current in the C-2 class.

Disabled will have access to the polls

Special provisions in voting procedures provide support for physically disabled, visually impaired and elderly electors who might otherwise be unable to cast their ballots in Ontario's 34th provincial general election.

Qualified electors who are unable to attend a polling place because of illness or physical disability have options other than voting on election day. They may either cast a ballot at an advance poll, or vote by proxy.

Designated advance polls, which provide level access or ramps to accommodate disabled or elderly electors, are scheduled for September 3, September 5 and September 7.

Proxy voting is an option for electors who for medical reasons are physically incapable of attending a polling place. This permits such an elector to authorize another elector residing in the same electoral district to vote on his or her behalf.

Proxy application forms may be obtained from any Elections Ontario office but they must be certified by the Returning Officer in the electoral district where the elector resides. The application form will be exchanged for a certificate to vote which the proxy voter must present at the polling place in order to receive a ballot and vote.

The person acting as proxy must be an eligible elector residing in the same electoral district and may not act for more than two electors.

Visually impaired electors may have a friend or one of the poll officials read the candidates' names in the order they appear on the ballot.

To enable these electors to align their ballots face up, a small notch has been cut into the edge of the upper right-hand corner of the ballot. Ontario election ballots are printed with the candidates' names appearing alphabetically down the left side with a circle to the right of each name for the elector to indicate his or her choice. A notch has also been cut out beside each white circle.

In accordance with the Ontario Election Act, the Deputy Returning Officer may assist such electors in marking their ballot. A provision in the election legislation also allows a friend - under oath - of a visually impaired or disabled elector to assist the elector and accompany that person through the voting process.

In addition, the ballot box may be moved by poll officials to facilitate voting by an elderly or disabled elector.

Facts about rabies

animal rabies in North America.

An average of only 40 per cent of dogs and 15 per cent of the cats in Ontario are immunized against rabies.

In recent years the number of rabid cats has exceeded the number of rabid dogs by as much as 50 per cent.

More than 50 per cent of human exposures occur from contact with dogs and cats.

It costs about $400 for vaccine to treat someone suspected of being exposed to rabies.

More than $1.5 million was spent on vaccine to treat the 4,212 suspected human exposures in 1986. This does not include doctor's fees for diagnosing and treating the exposures, and all other medical, laboratory, animal care and investigation costs.

The rabies virus is transmitted through the rabid animal's saliva by a bite, or contact with a cut or sore or the eyes, nose or mouth of another animal or person.

The disease has an incubation period of 10 days to one year, during which time no symptoms show.

But, an infected animal may be contagious four or five days before symptoms appear.

If rabies contact is suspected, the point of exposure should be washed thoroughly, medical attention must be sought immediately and the public health authorities informed.

Human treatment consists of five injections over a one-month period.

If symptoms develop the disease is fatal.

A gift from Germany

Six Minden area residents received gifts from Minden Germany last week when Rudi Haarman visited our community. Travelling through North America visiting the many communities which carry the name of his home town, Mr. Haarman presented aprons to the six residents. The lettering on the aprons say, 'Hello, here is Minden.' The stylized 'Mi' surrounding the name Minden is similar to the initials used on Germany licence plates to indicate the area where the vehicle is registered. Decked out in their Minden, Germany aprons are, from the left, Maurice Boyd, Ernie Stromberg, Inge Kasulke, Pat Bath, Doreen Berry and Cameron Monk while Mrs. Haarman looks on.

The Ministry of Housing now has a program called "Home Renewal Program for Disabled Persons". It is designed to give the disabled more accessibility and usage of their homes.

Modifications for example, could be in the way of wheelchair ramps and stair glides. All changes must be related to the disabled occupant's disability.

The program offers interest - free loans equal to the value of the work undertaken up to $15,000. The income will be evaluated and all or a portion of the loan could be forgivable at 20% per year.

The disabled person must have continued ownership and occupancy of the home. If the house is sold before the loan is repaid, it becomes due and payable immediately.

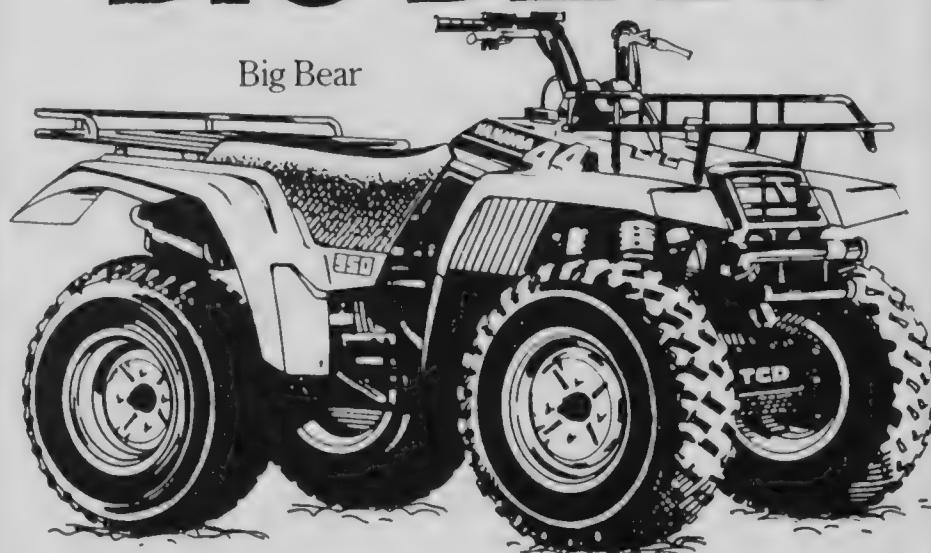

In the event of the applicant's death, the widow or widower (or his or her guardian) may continue to make repayment and earn forgiveness as long as he or she continues to live in the dwelling.

If you wish to receive further information regarding this program, contact the Haliburton County Information Centre situated in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., Haliburton, open Monday - Friday, 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. or call 457-2733.

Hopes to save 'disposable society'

Halting the "disintegration of the family unit" is what Family Coalition Party candidate Diane Roblin Lee has set her sights on in seeking the right to represent Victoria-Haliburton at Queen's Park.

Lee, a 43-year-old television Christian talk-show host, said the three main political parties are promoting the concept of "disposable society" through their proposed legislation in almost every regard. She says every piece of legislation passed through provincial parliament affects the family unit, which she says is the "basic unit of our society."

The FCP candidate admits that she never really expected to be running for political office. However, she said she felt unable to vote for any of the three main parties "in good conscience." She says the "anti-family policies of the other three parties" left her "disenfranchised."

At the top of the hit list proposed by Lee are the issues of abortion, the feminist movement, rights of homosexuals, and the lack of morals being taught in school.

Lee becomes visibly angered when discussing the issue of abortion. She criticizes the government for allowing abortion clinics to remain open while courts are determining whether or not these clinics have committed crimes through their activities. The pro-life lobby group is one of the organizations behind the formation of this party, she says.

Lee is also critical of the feminist movement, which she says is destructive to families. "Many women in Canada are not radical feminists," Lee says that mothers should not be encouraged to take jobs outside of the home because this takes them away from their children.

For this reason, she says she is also opposed to universal daycare. Instead of encouraging women to work through daycare programs, Lee says the government should provide incentives that will encourage mothers to stay at home.

Lee says that in most cases there is no need for mothers to be working. She said families should concentrate more on financial management of a single income, rather than trying to earn more through two incomes. "It depends on the financial load people take on," she says. "If you want to live in a big fancy house and don't have the income to do it on one income ... you have to choose your priorities."

"I'm not saying that everybody shouldn't work, but children are the priority," says Lee. "Don't push universal daycare on me."

Despite her late start in this campaign, Lee says she is optimistic about her chances of winning the election. She agrees the odds are slim that a new candidate from a new party can win this seat. However, she said the odds were stacked against David when he upset Goliath. She said she expects that the FCP will form the official opposition in a short time. This election is just the start, she says.

One of Lee's main gripes is what she calls special rights and privileges provided to homosexuals. She says that the Ministry of Education is teaching that homosexuality is a viable lifestyle. She also says that homosexual teachers cannot be fired from their jobs because of their sexual preferences.

Lee says this is in contradiction with the Ministry of Education's requirement that Christian values be taught in schools. She says

"it is unwise to have a teacher who is in difficulty with their own personal life to be a role model."

Lee also strongly believes that any teacher who does not follow the Christian faith should not be allowed to teach in Ontario schools. Asked, for example, if a Bhuddist could be a teacher, Lee said, "It's okay if they're conveying the Judeo Christian beliefs." However, she added, "I don't think they would."

While religious issues seem to be the mainstay of Parking tickets. Why you can no longer get away without paying.

Sorry, but you had better think twice about filing those slips of paper in your glove compartment.

Because new legislation means that either you pay the fine, request a trial if you wish to dispute the alleged infraction or your vehicle permit and license sticker will not be renewed.

You decide which option. It's that simple.

Should you receive a parking ticket, the ticket itself will tell you if the municipality issuing the ticket is using the new legislation and what your options are. All municipalities will be using the new legislation by 1989.

Hustlers rally to regain series lead

After dropping the second game of the series in Lindsay last Tuesday by the score of 5-4, the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers got their act together on Thursday night and downed Lindsay Town Rental by the convincing score of 14-0.

Last Tuesday in a tight see-saw game, the Hustlers came up on the low end. Town Rental scored a run in the first inning but the locals came back with a run in the second on a single by Brian Shaw, a stolen base and a hit by Jack Snell. In the third they added another run for a 2-1 lead as Doug Shaw singled and Colin Newell slammed a triple.

Rental went ahead 4-2 with two runs in the third and another in the fifth. However, the Hustlers bounced back to tie it in the sixth on a single by Greg Newell and a homer by Colin. Lindsay scored the winning run in the bottom of the sixth to tie the series 1-1.

Back at home on Thursday, the Hustlers had fire in their eyes as they pounded out 18 hits and Jack Snell tossed a one hitter as they took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

The locals got a fast start as they scored three runs in the first on a walk to Bob Johnston, Greg Newell reached base on an error. Colin Newell slammed a double and came home on a single by Dwight Sisson.

They added two more runs in the second, four in both the fourth and fifth and one in the sixth for the convincing 14-0 win.

Colin Newell was the big gun at the bat with two doubles and two singles. Brian Mullholland had three singles. Barry Shaw two doubles and Andrew Burk slammed a home run.

The fourth game of the series is in Lindsay on Sunday night and while the Hustlers will be trying to finish it off and claim their sixth straight championship they are not taking the Lindsay crew too lightly. They feel that Town Rental have a much better team than they showed on Thursday. If there is a fifth game it will be back in Minden next week. By the way, for interested fans, the game in Lindsay Sunday is at 8:00 p.m.

Greg Newell doubles over backward to avoid a wild pitch during the Hustlers Thursday night game in Minden. The local team recaptured the play-off lead by defeating Lindsay Town Rental in convincing style, 14-0. The best of five final play-off series now stands at 2-1.

Artist marks 90th

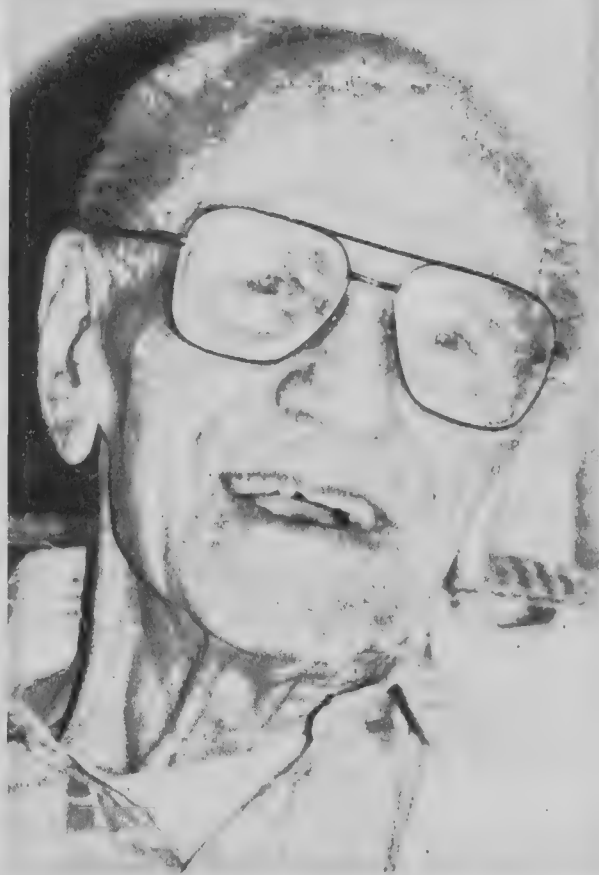

At his birthday party August 22 at Lochaven Inn, Joachim Gauthier seemed quite content, as well he should. He laughed out loud, mingled with the guests, accepted any number of kisses and congratulations from the young girls present and he even managed to act a bit surprised. Not bad for a guy of 90.

Maybe the crowds weren't all that strange to him. In his younger years he received many a handshake and pat on the back and has always had an illustrious following. As an artist he made quite a name for himself and nearly made the Group of Seven the Group of Eight.

While working as a graphic artist some 50 or 60 years ago, he would sit around and discuss a mutual interest, painting, with unknowns by the name of A.J. Casson and Frank Carmichael. They talked about interests in Canadian landscapes but not in the same way Europeans see them. Soon they were finding themselves taking vacations together into the woods where they would spend as long as a week at a time painting.

Although Gauthier met other members of "the Group" through Casson he never bothered to become one of them. When the Globe and Mail did a story on Gauthier in 1976 he was asked why he never joined up with "the Group" despite the fact that he was so close to them. He said "to be a painter of rural and country scenes is enough for me. It's what I do best and I've always enjoyed going my own way." He says his style stood somewhat different from "the Group" but also different from Europeans - somewhere in between.

Still at the spry old age of '80, Gauthier was commissioned to do portraits of the Group of Seven which hang at the McMichael Gallery in Kleinburg.

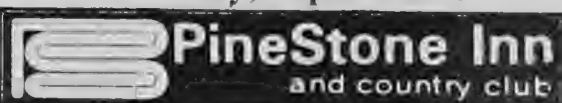

Artist Joachim Gauthier was the guest of honour at a celebration marking his 90th birthday.

Although painting was Gauthier's passion in life, he was also quite successful as a commercial artist. If you're interested in buying a print of one of his works, it may cost you 50 or 60 cents. Just go into your favourite convenience store and pick up a Crispy Crunch chocolate bar. Gauthier designed the wrapper years ago.

Of course not all his work is found behind the counter. In 1976 Pope Paul VI requested one of Gauthier's paintings as a gift after seeing one of his works 26 years earlier.

But Gauthier doesn't see himself as a legend. He doesn't paint anymore but he can still look. And at his 90th birthday party, he looked as if he'd still be around to tell those stories for a long time.

the FCP, Lee says it is a well-rounded party with stands on most issues.

For example, she says the preservation of the family farm is important to her. She said farmers' sons do not want to take over the operation of farms today because they feel they cannot make a profit off them. All the good farm land is gradually being lost to development, she said.

As a solution to this, Lee said she would like to see more grants, as well as loans at guaranteed rates to help farmers. She says farmers also deserve a fair price for their products, which she says could be accomplished through strong marketing boards.

She says she opposes the concept of a free trade pact with the U.S. because it would be too difficult for Canadian farmers to compete. She said American farmers are able to operate with less overhead because of lower heating costs that are associated with a warmer climate. She said a free trade deal would be devastating to Canadian farms.

One local issue on which she is well versed is the so-called northern schools issue. She disagrees with Liberal Candidate John Eakins, who claims that the Victoria County Board of Education's plan to close five schools in the northern part of the board is not a provincial issue.

On the contrary, Lee says this is very much a provincial issue. "The funding (for the construction of new schools) was dangling there like a carrot before the board made any decisions," she says.

Lee says the province should withdraw its funding and ask that the board complete a new study. She says the established guidelines were not followed in conducting the first study, and the government should have stepped in to ensure that all requirements were met.

Lee says the parents of students at the five schools are satisfied with the facilities already in place. "What right does the government have to jam busing down their throats?" She also notes that the government's attitude toward funding of schools is "right out to lunch." She said it would cost $800,000 to improve the present schools, while it is estimated that the two proposed new schools would cost $3.5 million.

Council briefs

The following are items discussed at the August 27 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council:

Boat storage

A detailed site plan will be required before Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council will give its consent for a boat storage facility for Wedgewood Marina.

Doug Coburn, who plans to build the boat storage on the former Maebur property on Twelve Mile Lake, was on hand at last Thursday's council meeting to find out what is needed before he can begin to build.

Chief Building Inspector Peter Oomen told council that boat storage is "one of the least offensive types of development." However, he noted that parking concerns would have to be addressed if the old restaurant on the property is to be re-opened.

Coburn said he has no immediate plans to do anything with the restaurant.

Councillor Vern Graham said he has no objections to the plan, but felt a detailed site plan, prepared by a surveyor, was required before council could give its approval.

Community Futures

A business opportunity forum will be held in Minden to identify what types of development would be desired in the area, Andy Campbell, chairman of the Haliburton County Development Corporation told council.

Campbell was on hand at the meeting to provide a report on the corporation's operations throughout the first year. He said the HCDC, formed under the federal Community Futures program, made 22 loans amounting to $225,000 and creating 46 jobs since it was established one year ago.

While council was receptive to the idea of an opportunity forum, Reeve Sinc Nesbitt balked at the prospect of council getting involved in a project that could see the creation of a commercial building complex in town.

Campbell told council that funding could be arranged for the construction of a building through the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing. He said he would be willing to help prepare the application for funding to build the complex that would be an "incubator" to new business.

However, Nesbitt seemed reluctant to get involved in this program. "That LEADs thing was a white elephant from day one," he said. He said it was an "ungodly amount of work" and it never panned out into anything.

BIA budget

The Minden Business Improvement Area will be able to continue with its regular programs now that a $4,500 budget for the year has been approved by council.

At council's request, Stuart Brandon attended last Thursday's meeting to give a report on the BIA's progress over the last year. He told council that the usual programs, such as the Rock Bass Derby, the Side-walk Sale, and the Dog Sled Derby have continued to keep the BIA busy. He also said that the ground work for new street lighting has been completed, and now that funding is available, the BIA would like to get going on the project. However, he noted that the BIA has everything it can do by paying for both studies into the need and design of street lights. "We're not prepared to get involved in the letting of contracts or construction," he said.

Regarding the proposed budget, Brandon said it is a "maintenance-type budget." He said there are no new programs planned. The $4,500 is only enough to help the BIA carry out its regular programs.

New well

Recent growth experienced in Minden has tapped its water supply almost to the limit, and Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council is now looking for ways of expanding its supply.

Councillor Bob Sisson urged council to proceed with a study to determine the amount of water that is available on a piece of property neighbouring the present pumping station. However, council was reluctant to approve the estimated $1,000 cost of the study until it is sure that the property will be available for sale to the township. Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said the township should not buy the property until council is sure that the well will be adequate.

Councillor Sisson will be contacting Jack Brezina to see if he is willing to sell the property, located behind The Times office, on the condition that the study finds a satisfactory supply.

In order to obtain ministry funding the application has to be filed by the end of September, Sisson said.

Pay hike

Members of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Planning Board may be getting a pay hike.

At Thursday's council meeting, Councillor Royce Miller endorsed the board's recommendation for an increase in the honorarium paid to board members. The honorarium is given to the members to compensate them for time spent at meetings.

However, before increasing the honorarium, Reeve Sinc Nesbitt will need a recommended figure from the board. He instructed councillors Miller and Vern Graham to come back to the next meeting with a recommended increase.

Fee required

Despite recommendations from Reeve Sinc Nesbitt, Anson, Hindon and Minden Council turned down a request from Haliburton County to waive the building permit fee for the addition to the county building.

Reeve Nesbitt asked to go "in camera" to discuss the recommendation, which prevents the media from reporting his comments.

The fee, which is designed to cover the costs of issuing a building permit and work conducted by the building inspector, will still be required.

Representation

After learning of Ministry of Housing approval for 36 new housing units for Staunton Municipal Non-profit Housing Corporation, Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council has decided it wants to have representation on the board.

Councillor Vern Graham noted that both Stanhope and Lutterworth councils have representatives sitting on the non-profit housing corporation's board. He said Anson, Hindon and Minden should also be represented.

Former Clerk Bev Millar used to sit on the board. However, her resignation has left the township with no representation. He suggested that once a new clerk is hired, that person should be required to sit on the board.

Free rental

The newly-formed Minden Legion will be given free rental of the community centre to hold its Charter Night on September 19.

At Thursday's meeting, council voted to bear the cost of the community centre rental for that night, when the Legion will receive its charter and become an official organization.

Early petition

Anson, Hindon and Minden Council was surprised when it received a petition opposing a planned severance of Part Lot 25, Concession 9 on Poverty Bay in Minden Township.

Apparently the objectors are acting faster than the person who is planning the severance. Council has not received an application for severance of that property.

Road signs

The Canning Lake Cottagers' Association will have to bear the costs of installing numbered road signs.

Responding to a request for financial assistance in placing road signs, Councillor Vern Graham said, "I don't feel we can meet that request." He said the township is willing to help manually with the erection of the signs, but not financially. He said any financial aid would have to apply equally to all lakes' associations.

Booth hired

Anson, Hindon and Minden Fire Chief Don Booth will now be on the township payroll, but not for his work on the fire department.

Council decided Thursday to hire Booth as an employee with the water and sewer plant. Booth will be placed on a six-month probationary contract.

Summer program called successful

In terms of participation, the Summer Fun program put on by the Minden Recreation Department was a success, co-ordinator Adele Wray and councillor Bern Berry concluded at Thursday's council meeting.

Wray was on hand at the meeting to clear up confusion regarding the participation in the various programs which ran throughout the summer. Concerned by what he had interpreted as a lack of interest in the programs, Councillor Vern Graham asked at the August 20 meeting that Wray attend the next regular council meeting.

Although there were 90 children registered in the summer activity program, only 75 actually participated. Attendance at the programs ranged from a high of 28 to a low of nine.

"I don't feel that chart shows that there was a lack of attendance," Wray said, referring to the report that caused so much confusion. She said she did not expect that 90 kids would be coming back day after day. "There are too many other things going on in the summer," she said.

Based on the average attendance, Berry asked Graham if he felt it was a successful program, however Graham was noncommittal. He answered by saying the statistics could have been presented more clearly.

SOS committee unites with similar organizations

Victoria County residents fighting to save five schools in the northern part of their board will be uniting with others who share similar problems to form a stronger voice in their dealings with the provincial government.

A press release from Dianne Austin, chairman of the Save Our Schools Committee in Norland, says citizens fighting these closures are now bannin together in a coalition lobby group.

"Due to provincial government educational policy, community school closures are a wide-scale problem across the province," she says. Concerned parents and ratepayers from school board jurisdictions such as Timmins, Simcoe County, Victoria County, Haliburton County, Halton and Thunder Bay are coming together for a one-day workshop and organizational session.

"Preliminary discussions between these groups has indicated a disturbingly similar pattern acting throughout the province, leading to the disappearance of community schools," she says in the press release. "It is evident that provincial government initiatives are behind these closures. Therefore it is necessary that a lobby group form at the provincial level."

Austin has headed the drive to save the schools in Kinmount, Cobocok, Norland, Burnt River and Kirkfield for more than a year. Recent developments of the struggle have succeeded in at least delaying the schools closures.

A few weeks ago, in a split vote, the Victoria County Board of Education was denied municipal approval to locate one of its planned new schools at the Burnt River Community Centre.

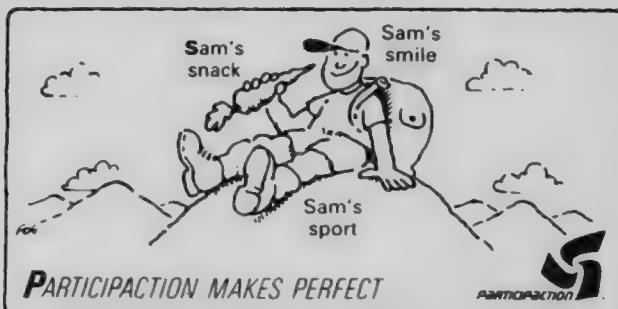

The board has argued that by replacing the five small schools with two larger ones, it can provide better facilities and improve the quality of education. However, residents are concerned about the lengthy bus rides their children will endure, as well as the impact of the school closures on the communities.

One of the alternatives to be discussed at the seminar is to petition the Minister of the Environment to designate major school closures under the Environment Assessment Act so that the full socio-economic impact on the communities involved will have to be considered. One of the main concerns of the SOS committee is that the province has approved funding for the new schools although the board has not followed proper guidelines in conducting its studies into the impact of the closures on the communities.

The seminar is slated for August 31, beginning with a media conference at 11 a.m. at the Westin Hotel in Toronto. The recommendations developed at this conference will be presented and a new lobby group will be formed.

Health ministry approves initial hospital layout

At a meeting of the Fundraising Committee for the Haliburton County Continuing Care Unit, it was reported that the Ministry of Health's Capital Planning Branch had approved the block schematics which had been submitted by the architects on June 1, 1987.

This is an important milestone toward the eventual approval from the Ministry to go to tender. Block schematics are reduced plans which outline the concept of a new building project and establish the basis of its design, size and relationship to existing facilities.

Sketch plans, now well under way by the architects, NORR, will be the first full size drawing that include all the details of the new building and reflect the changes requested to date by the Capital Planning Branch Project Manager, and the Fire Marshall's Office in regard to compliance with building and fire code standards.

The first part of this project will be the relocation of the heliport as the new construction will encroach on the site presently used by helicopters. The drawings and specifications for that part of the work have been completed already and work will be starting shortly.

The Fundraising Committee feel very strongly that there should be a full basement under the addition as there will be a requirement for this space for health-related activities in future years. The basement will add another $100,000 to the original estimates and, as it is not eligible for Ministry of Health funding, would need to be met by the current campaign.

The situation also arose when the present hospital was built and at that time the local committee insisted on a full basement and their judgement has certainly proved sound.

Mr. John Eakins, M.P.P. has been approached for additional subsidy and his reply is expected soon.

The Fundraising committee is delighted with the success of the campaign and the way it has received the backing of the whole County.

NOTICE Spot The Shot

The Spot The Shot contest, which appears in the August 26 - September 2 edition of This Week in the Highlands accompanying this newspaper, contains incorrect copy for this week's contest. The corrected copy and photograph appear below. We apologize to our readers for this mix-up.

Contest editor.

Driving in winter's icy chill,
Allsaw is quite a tricky hill.
Even in summer marks we see,
Of drivers we hope were lucky.

Lorna Hicks, our Spot The Shot poet, is bang on once again with her identification of the shot in contest number 7. And just to prove that all the literary talent in her family isn't just Lorna's, her daughter, Beth of Toronto, offers this variation on an old Latin phrase: "You saw, I saw, We all saw, Allsaw." Nicely done ladies. We always appreciate the personal touches participants include in their contest entries. Gordon Main of Soyers Lake, (a small piece of the lake was visible at the top of the photo), comments that the scene is his family's first view of the lake as they drive north in the early spring. It must be a welcome sight, indeed. Unfortunately, extra commentary doesn't count when our judges apply the rigorous random selection process. This week's winner of the $25 cash prize, is Mike Irwin of Haliburton. He correctly identified the location as Highway 121, facing east, between Minden and Haliburton as the road dips to the Allsaw bridge. In addition to the cash prize, a donation of $25 will be made in Mr. Irwin's name to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund. Congratulations to him. Now, there aren't many contests left, so sharpen your eye and find the location of this shot.

If you think you know where this shot was taken, send your guess, along with your name, address and phone number to Spot The Shot, Contest Number 9, Box 97, Minden, Ontario K0M 2K0. Your entry can also be dropped off at The Times office during regular business hours. The deadline for entries is September 8. The winner will be announced in the September edition of This Month in the Highlands.

Fish Council will play active role in province

With Dr. E. J. Crossman at the helm, Ontario's new Fisheries Advisory Council will chart a strong course as an intermediary between the Ministry of Natural Resources and the public.

Crossman, an expert on freshwater fish and a curator in the department of Ichthyology and Herpetology at the Royal Ontario Museum, says that before he agreed to accept the position as council chairman, he had to satisfy himself that the council would be an independent body, and not a rubber stamp for ministry policy.

"Before I accepted the position I called the chairman of the Ontario Provincial Parks Council, (Lloyd Burridge of Windsor) which has a similar structure, and asked him if he felt the councils had a realistic function," Crossman said recently. "I asked about how much independence it had and whether the parks council had an arms-length relationship with the government. He was very enthusiastic about the role of that council."

The fisheries council "is a good move," Crossman added. "It is offering the public a chance to participate indirectly with fisheries as they do through the parks council with parks."

The fisheries council was established in June to advise Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio on the spending of money from Ontario's resident sport fishing licences, and to examine fisheries management programs and recommend ways to improve them.

"The members of the Ontario Fisheries Advisory Council were chosen to represent a broad range of opinions and to reflect the geographic, philosophical and socio-economic diversity of the people who make use of our fish resources," Kerrio said at the time of their appointments.

"This diversity will ensure that council members will have first-hand knowledge of the conflicts which can occur among the various user groups. The council will be able to take these conflicts into account when making its recommendations to me," the Minister said.

The council held its first meeting in Toronto at the beginning of August, when members received the terms of reference from the Minister and began to set priorities for future council activities. Membership includes outdoors and angling associations, as well as representatives of other interested groups.

Crossman said he believes it is important that all fishing interests, and not just angling, be represented on the council.

"I think the public doesn't understand, as yet, that the minister wants us to look at all fisheries programs, not just those involving sport-fishing, and that is why he wanted representation from all types of fisheries users."

As a scientist, researcher and teacher, Crossman is highly qualified to lead the advisory council. The co-author of a textbook about freshwater fishes in Canada, he has a particular scientific interest in pike and muskellunge. He is currently involved in a research project in the Dryden and Vermilion Bay area to determine why muskellunge numbers decrease when pike move into its territory.

He is also interested in tracing the evolutionary patterns of the two species. "We had long assumed that pike and muskie were quite similar. We are finding now that they are, in fact, quite different. For example, they don't spawn the same way and aspects of their anatomy are quite different."

Another research project, done in conjunction with John Casselman, an MNR research scientist at Maple, involves determining the age of muskellunge and pike by examining a crescent-shaped bone found immediately behind the head of those fishes.

Anglers, taxidermists and biologists from across North America have been asked to send in this bone, called the cleithrum, so the fish's age can be accurately determined. The results are reported back to the sender.

Crossman frequently serves as a judge at angling competitions, and the ROM department is often asked to adjudicate disputes about what kind of fish a competitor has caught.

In addition to being curator at the ROM, Crossman has a cross-appointment as a professor at the University of Toronto, teaches undergraduate and graduate zoology students, and supervises the research of graduate students.

As part of his duties as Fisheries Advisory Council chairman, Crossman will act as spokesman for the group. However, he encourages members to feel free to voice their personal opinions about angling and fisheries issues if asked by the media.

He said council position papers and its annual report will be released to the public and also that some of the council's recommendations could lead to changes in existing ministry policies.

"It is very important that we get across to the public that we do have the independence and credibility to speak on our own."

The council will begin its work by examining the revenue collected by the ministry from the resident sport fishing licence, and reviewing the expenditures made under the program. Council members have been asked to assure themselves that money equal to the amount collected from the licences is being spent to enhance, protect and rebuild the province's fisheries resources.

The council will also review projects which are scheduled to receive funding next year under the program, and to look for ways the ministry can improve fishing in Ontario.

Once those tasks are done, the council will be asked to review proposed new programs and provincial policies dealing with fisheries. It will also look for new and innovative ways for the ministry to raise money for fisheries programs, such as through the sale of limited edition prints or special stamps. If specific problems or issues related to fisheries arise, the minister may ask the council to investigate and make recommendations.

Hi kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. have fun!

Hello Folks.

More nice weather, we hope it lasts.

A nice start for the week with Mr. and Mrs. Burgess in for Chapel Service and on Tuesday with Rev. East of Minden Gospel Church.

I am sad to report the passing of another resident Mrs. Ada Allcorn who has been here for a great many years, and although she was greatly crippled with arthritis you would never hear her complain. She will be missed.

The C.W.L. of the Kinmount Catholic Church were in charge of our Thursday afternoon tea. It was lovely for me as I was able to see the folks from home. Then we were entertained by Mrs. Peggy Wynn who is at her cottage on Shadow Lake. She and her husband are really good. Thank you Peggy, and do come again.

Mr. Gauthier who is living here celebrated his birthday on Saturday in a big way, with his family. Happy Birthday Joe from us all at Hyland Crest.

Happy Birthday wishes

also go out to Mary O'Toole and Edna Cowan.

Maron Rose had her son Bob as her guest a couple of times during the week. Winnie Barnum was out for the afternoon on Thursday visiting at Haliburton. Glad to say Jean Taylor is feeling much better. Mrs. Hunter had one of her sons call yesterday. Mrs. Casey attended the wedding of her granddaughter Saturday afternoon. Alf Richardson was out for the day Saturday with friends.

Quilting is the order of the day here; got to keep busy so we won't get into mischief. There are 5 or 6 ladies quilting to beat the band, they will stitch away until they won't know where to land.

We had a pleasant evening Saturday playing cribbage and euchre.

"Summer heat has old folks beat.

They're short of breath they say.

It's nice to lend such folks a hand.

So we can show we understand."

Till next week.

Guild news

by Elene J. Freer

Two new shows will be opening at the Rails' End Gallery this week.

Changing Seasons is Wolfgang Decker's painted celebration of the changing beauty found throughout the Haliburton Highlands and Muskoka region. Using the four seasons as his central theme, Decker explores a summer sunrise, winter moonlight, autumn storms and spring rains.

Decker was born in Germany in 1924. He received his art training at Meisterschule fuer Graphik in Berlin and completed an apprenticeship as a lithographer. During 1954, Decker emigrated to Canada and established himself as an illustrator and commercial artist. After working for many years with oils, tempera and watercolours, Decker chose to experiment with acrylics. As he remarks, "All of a sudden there are no limitations. I have total freedom to try any technique I want. I can catch a fleeting mood or render precise detail exactly as I want".

"A Few Rustic Huts" is an exhibition of photographs by Sandy R. Gage. These photographs of log ranger cabins and logging camp buildings of Algonquin Park speak of another time... "when woodworkers lived in an intimate relationship with the environment. Theirs was a working man's architecture, simple in form and purpose, but not without grace. They were craftsmen with an axe."

Gage is a freelance photographer and writer who is interested in those historic sites which lie half-forgotten throughout our northern landscape. He photographs the sites with a view camera which produces a large 5 x 7 inch negative. "The camera gives me very precise, very accurate shots," remarks Gage. "I have a documentary role to play, to make a record of the site on film. Some of these things won't be around much longer."
